A black and white photograph of a man and a woman standing together. The man is on the left, wearing a dark, long-sleeved shirt and dark trousers, and a light-colored cap. The woman is on the right, wearing a plaid dress and a wide-brimmed hat. They are standing in front of a wall with a patterned wallpaper.

A black and white photograph capturing a poignant moment. A sailor in a dark uniform with a white sailor's cap and stripes on his sleeves is leaning forward to kiss a young child on the cheek. The child, wearing a light-colored dress, is being held by a woman standing behind them. The woman, with dark hair and a joyful expression, is wearing a light-colored, textured jacket and white shoes. The sailor holds a large bouquet of light-colored flowers. The background is slightly out of focus, showing what appears to be a building with some signage.

BROOKSIDE MILK

A Briton, professor Laski, in Russia, made a speech that may, or may not, have been foolish. He said he had to discuss the probability of revolution in England, and members of the House of Commons got excited about it.

The British government, to all the howling, replies through its spokesman that "Professor Laski's passport was quite in order, and declines to interest itself further."

Chancellor Dollfus of Austria said, "No more bomb explosions. Deliver your dynamite now, and you will be forgiven."

France is borrowing three billion francs. Money seems to be scarce in Europe, although we sent a good deal abroad.

Russia sends over four and a half million dollars to pay for cotton bought in this country.

How a "best minds" explain that? They said Russia would never pay anything.

8 FACE LINEUP AS MAGNOLIA SUSPECTS

Staging a roundup of 20 underworld characters in Providence, police of that city today held eight suspects to be viewed by Mr. Marshall Daniel J. Casey of Providence and three witnesses to Magnolia's $250,000 gem robbery.

Two of those held have long criminal records and are known to have figured in spectacular robberies in recent years. Upon this pair police pinned hopes of reaching a solution of the crime.

That day city Marshal Casey kept the promise he made yesterday that night would see definite developments.

The arrests were made by special inspectors assigned secretly to aid Marshal Casey and his inspectors.

Mr. Henry Burgess and James E. Moody, Not even the general detective personnel knew of the plans preceding the arrests.

Among those who were due in Providence today were Charles Orest, manager of the Hodgson-Kennard store that was robbed.

Jose Goldard, maid in the Orest home who was "taped and tied up by the robbers," Edward Davis, 18-year old high school student and handyman around the store, and Robert Hodgson, 25, son of one of the owners in the jewelry firm.

Mrs. Ann Orest, wife of the store manager, who was tied up as she interrupted the robbery was also expected in the party.

Of the arrests police hoped to make today, there are scheduled in Providence, one in Worcester and another in Springfield.

In Worcester is the eight-passenger, dark green sedan, believed to have been used at the robbery.

W. C. T. U. Asks Ban On Beach Stores

In a campaign against the sale of liquor in Quincy, the W. C. T. U. today demanded that the license board ban intoxicating drinks from the streets in Wallcut Beach.

Members of the organization stated that they object to have children witness the dispensing of liquor in that section where they are bathers.

Sisters Are Auto Victims

Dorothy Leeman, 11, of 22 Dewey street, Roxbury, always looks out for little sister Joan, who is only 3. An automobile in Blue Hill avenue near their home was too much for Dorothy, however. Carrying Joan across the avenue, the two were struck. They were treated at City Hospital for cuts and bruises. Then Dorothy resumed her protector role. JUNE DELONG IS TO TAKE STAND

By International News Service

Los Angeles, July 13.—June DeLong, beautiful blonde screen actress, today will raise one of the hands which on numerous occasions have doubled for the hands of prominent cinema stars and be sworn as a witness in the murder trial of Gloria Marsh, extra girl of the movies, and Dave Allen, head of the Central Casting Bureau.

Miss DeLong, according to other State's witnesses, was one of the participants in the assisted revel at her apartment April 29, in which Miss Marsh and Allen are charged with taking part.

If convicted, Miss Marsh and Allen face the possibility of maximum sentences of 15 years each in prison.

Despite attempts by the defense to prove that the charges against Allen and Miss Marsh are the result of a "frame-up" by enemies of Allen, who is said to be confined the desecrated of almost 17,000 film extras, featured yesterday's scene.

Mrs. Pearl Owings, who Wednesday testified to walking accidentally in on the alleged party, which she described in unprintable language, spent practically all of yesterday's court session under a severe cross examination.

Clothes May Make the Woman but Not for This Nudelywed Bride

By Universal Service

Chicago, July 13.—Mrs. Samuel J. Wallace, Jr., who knew the one who got married wearing no clothes whatever, is in hot underwear and potentially testified for the prosecution in court to keep her clothes on at least for one day.

Feeling uncharitably treated in a thoroughly domestic checkered garment house, the bride-to-be, who had been principal in the widely publicized audit, wedding as a World's Fair concession, put it this way:

CLOTHES GET ME DOWN

"Nudism doesn't run in my family. My folks go for clothes in a big way. But since I learned the joys and freedom of the nude state, clothes just get me down. I can scarcely do my housework, all bundled up in two garments."

But since it is the condition in which she and her young husband remain out of jail following trial and conviction of participating in an improper exhibition, the Wallaces are going to wear simple clothes to satisfy neighbors and police, and it's perfectly safe to drop in on them any time.

Judge Frances Borah sentenced the couple to a year in jail, but got them on probation for a year on condition to keep their clothes on.

Delighted to return to the calm domesticity of their apartment, Mrs. Wallace and her spouse, also fully clothed as per court promise, have taken up reading. Anybody advise? right when they left off.

MRS. S. J. WALLACE, JR.

When the fun began two weeks ago, not even for weekends are they going to check down in the nudist camp. They are completely "on the wagon," but at terrible shortness. Said the one who—how—were the parts in the family:

BEHOLD! NUDITY SKIPS OUT

"Heavily, economy—we've got no idea how it saves laundry bills, and what can a nudist wife want with a new spring bath—and moral uplift are dandy arguments, or auditions."

"You look like a new person after a week in camp. But I guess we'll have to wait for the rest of the world to catch up with the idea."

But there will be an happy remembrance of the wedding party very soon. The bridegroom, Yvonne Stanley upon learning that a nudist wedding is actually a business, in clearing the police, slipped the state. The bride, Mrs. Fred N. Smith, has been read out of his family by an in-law letter.

Mae West Film 'Belle of 90's'

By Associated Press

Hollywood, Calif., July 13.—For the third time Mae West's latest and much discussed picture has been renamed. It will be called "The Belle of the Gaiety."

First it was named "Auntie Ma," but the New York censors would object to some scenes and the studio revamped it and decided to give it a new name.

The second name chosen was "The Belle of the Gaiety," but protests from the Louisiana city caused the studio to discard it.

Queen Alexandra Curling Hair "Bangs" Revived

By GEORGE LAFF

International News Service Staff Correspondent

London, July 13.—Springtime for the film, dead end of the 1930's, a new mode of women's hairdressing today is becoming the vogue in fashionable circles in London and Paris.

Emile Perian hairdresser, is credited with creating the new mode, almost a replica of the style adopted in her youth and maintained to the end by the late Queen Alexandra of England.

It consists of placing immovable tiny curls across the forehead, partly lying over the crown of the head, and where the shape of the head is suitable, more tiny curls at the nape of the neck.

There is also a decided trend away from bleaching and dying, according to London's leading coiffure.

Impetus to both these innovations was given recently when Mrs. Gerard D'Erlanger, a recognized leader of fashion, was seen seated between the Prince of Wales and Prince George at the Monogramme Her train platform only a few weeks ago were their natural shade. Across her forehead were the curling bangs that Queen Alexandra popularized decades ago.

Speakers for the residents pointed out that this is the first permit to be granted by Mayor Mansfield's administration for so large a tank.

SLAYER OF TWO SEEN IN WOODS NEAR HOME

Waterbury, Conn., July 13.—The searchers of John Crowe were given today what they considered positive proof that the elusive slayer of two men is still in the woods surrounding his Waterbury shack.

Mrs. B. B. French, who lives on the lonely road only half a mile from Crowe's shack, told state police that she had seen the fugitive at a distance of not over 10 feet, while she and her son were picking blackberries.

Mrs. French, who has known Crowe well, said she recognized him as her gaze met him when she straggled on from berry picking.

Crowe, upon seeing the woman, dropped to all fours and crawled away. Mrs. French said she appeared finally behind a pile of rocks, after he had stood up again and contemplated her.

Mrs. French walked to her home nearby, when she thought it was safe to move, and sent her son to notify state police at the Waterbury home, where the double slaying June 21, a mile distant.

The only trooper at the farm at the time went to the spot where Crowe was last seen and notified his commanding officer.

Crowe is sought for the slaying of Clarence Yankin and a hired man of the Yankin farm.

VIOLENCE 'ONLY' WAY OUT, SAY RED LEADERS

By ROBERT MATTHEWS

Chicago, Ill., in American service, but New York, July 13.—"It has got to come to revolution, comrades. Toledo, Minneapolis and San Francisco are only the beginning."

His tone was quiet and patient, but there was utter conviction in his voice. He was answering the question, "Is violence the only way?" He said:

"We do not advocate violence. But violence inevitably will be forced on us, and we must be prepared for it. The capitalists are not going to let us take their property away without a struggle."

BLOODSHED AND VIOLENCE

"As soon as the Communists become powerful enough you will see that the capitalists will make use of Fascists, liberals and Socialists to betray the working class. And then there will be trouble, bloodshed and violence."

The comrade was explaining the doctrine of the Communist party, U. S. A. That is why, he told me, the party was not greatly interested in winning elections.

CHILDREN MADE REDS

Most political parties pay attention only to children from the age of 16. Then there are the other organizations which regard their Communist propaganda.

Among these are the student leagues with branches in colleges and high schools; international workers' federal order; organizations formed to provide free legal service when Communists are arrested; associations which analyze current economic conditions from the Communist point of view; the Red Front, a semi-military organization; the Friends of the Soviet Union, of which Corliss Lamont, one of the Morgan partners, is a director; the John Reed Club and Rebel Arts literary and art clubs, etc.

Garage Crooks Buy Gas: Take $250

Local police today were seeking three robbers who hold up and take more than $250 from attendants at the State Street Garage. The trio drove in an auto and ordered gallons of gas. A $25 bill was offered David Diner, night manager. As he turned a pistol was thrust in his face. Five $50 bills were taken from an open safe.

Young Star on Strike

Although she doesn't know or understand it all, little Shirley Temple, 5, movie star, is going to strike unless her pay is increased from $150 a week to $2500 a week. She will not appear when she is called next time. Her father, George F. Temple, issued the ultimatum to Fox Film officials who said that $1800 a week had been offered. Shirley, unimpressed by the salary war, plays happily in the Temple back yard. (Picture from International News Photograph Service.)

SHIRLEY WANTS BIG PROTEST ON $2500 A WEEK OIL FARM SEEN

By Universal Service

Hollywood, July 12.—Unless she gets a 1000 per cent increase in salary, Shirley Temple, five-year-old movie star, is going to strike.

This was the ultimatum given here to officials of Fox film, the studio where Shirley leaped into fame, by the child's father, George F. Temple.

Shirley was signed a year ago for a $150 weekly salary. Her father declared that unless the studio agrees to pay her $2500 weekly hereafter, the young star will not report for work the next time she is called.

Studio executives said the young star, whose popularity has grown by leaps and bounds with each picture in which she has appeared, is worth $1000 a week and that this wage has been offered.

Temple, manager of a bank, said he would make no further decision until he consults an attorney.

HIS WIVES KICK AT 'GIRL'

By International News Service

New York, July 12.—Wife No. 1 didn't mind especially when she learned about James Malcolm Hurd's wife No. 2, and the second Mrs. Hurd was only mildly perturbed when she heard about the previous Mrs. Hurd. But when the two wives learned that friend husband had a girl friend there was trouble.

"They had him arrested on a charge of bigamy," it intended to divorce my first wife, but it slipped my mind."

Hurd, 28, and a Coney Island sideshow Barker, told the magistrate in Yorkville court.

Kelly Reports 12,000 Signers

Former City Councillor Francis E. Kelly, of Dorchester, today announced that he has obtained more than 12,000 signatures for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor. He will oppose Joseph L. Hurley, of Fall River, endorsed at the Worcester convention.

Slayer Executed

Florence Ariz., July 12 (AP).—George J. Shaughnessy, 19-year-old killer from Albany, N. Y., was executed at 1:58 a. m. today in the lethal gas chamber of the state prison.

Dorchester and Neponset citizens planned today to present united opposition at a hearing before the state fire marshal Thursday on their protest against the granting of permits for an oil farm at 170 Granite avenue, Dorchester.

Protestants jammed Lucien Hall on Gallivan boulevard last night for a meeting presided over by James Reardon, president of the Cedar Grove Civic Improvement Association, and each pledged to appear at the Thursday meeting.

Residents claim that permits granted to Samuel A. Myers for storage of 100,000 gallons of fuel and kerosene oil are the wedge for establishment of a great oil farm in the property.

Neighborhood opposition, five times defeated granting of the first permit, protestants were told and few, it was claimed, were aware of the sixth application before the first permit for 40,000 gallons were issued.

Complaint made to City Council President Dowd, while he was acting in Mayor Mansfield's absence, resulted in re-opening the controversy, after Dowd had called in Owen Gallagher, chairman of the board of street commissioners.

Danger to children, fire hazard in the residential area, depletion of property and increase of insurance rates were some of the points stressed at the meeting last night by a long list of speakers including Assistant District Attorney Francis Hickey.

Representative John Hurley, Joseph Thomas, Coleman, Joseph McGrath, Joseph L. Murphy, Henry Tickerton, Daniel McLaughlin, Edward Ford, J. Fred Howard.

Howman John P. Dowd, of Engine 2, were placed on the retired list.

Question: "Have you a recipe for making Blueberry Muffins with sour milk?"—Mr. G. R. M., Boston.

Answer: In the recipe given below, substitute $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. soda and $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sour milk for the sweet milk, and omit the baking powder. Two cups sifted flour, 2 tsp. baking powder 2 tbsps.

sugar, $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp salt. 1 egg well beaten $\frac{3}{4}$ cup milk 4 cups melted butter, $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ cups blueberries, washed and drained. Sift the flour once, measure, add half

GUY BUSH After pitching 9 innings —and then he smoked a Camel!

MEET GUY BUSH...star pitcher for the Chicago Cubs! Guy won 20 games last year...pitched in all 264 innings...and he's pitching at an .800 clip this year. Like many athletes, Guy has found that at the end of a grueling match, nothing brings back his energy and vitality like a Camel.

YOU TOO can increase Vim and Energy...quickly!

When you feel "used up"—smoke a Camel! Fatigue and irritability fade away. Your flow of natural energy snaps back to a higher level in a few minutes.

This experience is well known to millions of Camel smokers. It has been confirmed by a famous New York research laboratory. Take for example Guy Bush. There's a lesson in what Guy has to say about the "energizing effect" in Camels:

"Bases full, one out, and a strike. I'm watching the bases and the batter, too. Now I've got to pitch. The pitch—and it's two strikes! Will he strike out? You think so...and yet you can't tell. Baseball is full of tough spots that take it out of a pitcher who works his regular turn and stands up to the grind for seven long months.

"Like most of the big-league pitchers, I smoke Camels. And when I come out of a game after nine hard innings there's nothing that lifts up my energy the way a Camel does. I feel freshened up in no time at all. I smoke a lot. Camels never interfere with my nerves!"

Learn to "get a lift with a Camel" whenever your energy runs low. Smoke as constantly as you like. The finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS in Camels never upset the nerves.

CAMELS Costlier Tobaccos never get on your Nerves

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

"Get a LIFT with a Camel!"

This Is Life
by
ROBERT E. ROGERS

I want to see the circus yesterday, one of the great pleasures of my life. I am not a circus person, I am a man who has seen the circus so many times that I can see it without being excited. I am not a circus person, I am a man who has seen the circus so many times that I can see it without being excited.

That is how I best love to see a circus. The Museum, whose habits were formed in the Metropolitan, much prefer an evening performance in a place like the old Madison Square Garden or our Boston equivalent. But I, whose first circus was a dug and pony show in a little tent on the spot later converted from our house in Worcester, Mass., am not happy at a circus unless the sun is shining.

I said "I saw" the circus. That is perhaps an exaggeration. Better, I caught glimpses of the circus at intervals behind a mob of boys with things to sell. When the time came to announce the extraordinary after-show, the marvelous Wild West performance, for only 25 cents more, immediately after the climactic horse races, I half expected the leather-junged announcer to remark:

"The gentlemen who will now pass among you with tickets for the second show and such and every one of you will have your view blocked for at least five minutes, or during the entire act of the trained seals." Anyway, that is what happened.

I didn't have a program, so my sense of what the performance was like may be expressed this way, in the order of the acts:

- Boy selling peanuts
- Boy selling popcorn
- Boy selling tonic
- Boy selling ice cream cones
- Boy selling crackerjacks
- Boy selling spun sugar
- Boy selling rubber monkeys
- Boy selling five chameleons
- Boy selling whistle canes
- Boy selling balloons
- Boy selling whirling birds
- Boy selling Wild West hats
- Boy selling tickets and having difficulty making change, and dropping nickels down the cracks and recovering them, and standing in front of you and on your feet and being very savvy when remonstrated with, and generally running your view of the proceedings for minutes at a time, and always (by the operation of what the Turks call Kismet) at the precise moment when the most exciting thing is happening.

That is one of the two chief drawbacks of going to a circus. The other is the utter and callous indifference of the ticket sellers to your preference in the matter of reserved seats, their bored unwillingness to tell you where the seats are, or to even attempt to meet your wishes in the matter of location of seats, the difficulties they put in the way of your attempt to change your seats, and the general impression they give that the average circus employee considers his public as so much noxious sludge, probably afflicted with contagious disease. No other amusement enterprise in the United States has developed to such heights the art of annoying the public. Of course, once it was worse. There was a time when circus employees were expert in short changing, when the circus operated its own games of chance and pretty well cleaned out the pockets of its patrons, when its hangers-on cleaned the backyards of the clothes on the line. All that, of course, is only a memory. Public opinion, the law, and the new laxness long ago forced the perambulant tent show to legal honesty and general decency.

But there ought to be a law to protect the cash customer from the dishonest (current phrase) by the galloping vendors of drinks and novelties climbing all over you during the whole course of the show. And an elementary training in civil courtesy for ticket sellers. Except for that, the circus is awful.

Things one never sees wondering at. The power of individual possession, the power of the lips; the marvelous power of balance possessed by the trained seal and his happy ignorance of work; the ceremonial, not to say ritualistic, character of the chameleons clown acts; the speed of the huge elephants (pachyderms to you) in their routine; the admirable synchronizing of the three legs of humans or animals, all doing the same thing, each at a long periodic sentence, punctuated by the whistle; the good nature of the lions and tigers breeding themselves to the exaggerated melodrama of their trainer's whips and blank cartridges. After all, the advantages of the circus probably outweigh its disadvantages—and you can say that of very few things in this life.

London Wonder Athlete Defies Father Time Keeps on Winning

By Jack Cunaw

JIM LONDON, who is training at White Spot, Woburn, for his world heavyweight championship bout with Ed Don George at Fenway Park Wednesday night, is in many respects the wonder athlete of the world.

London is 40 years of age, which is old for the average age of a professional boxer. Even younger men have been beaten by him in the past. He has beaten some of the best fighters in the world, and he has won the world championship title in the past.

Mr. London

London has been a professional boxer for 15 years. He has won the world championship title in the past, and he has been a professional boxer for 15 years. He has won the world championship title in the past, and he has been a professional boxer for 15 years.

London Is Confident

There has been a heavyweight world champion at every crossroad. In a process of elimination it will get to a point where London, Jim Browning and Ed Don George will be the only ones left.

London decided Browning and George were the men he had to beat. In a process of elimination it will get to a point where London, Jim Browning and Ed Don George will be the only ones left.

London has opened a training camp at White Spot, Woburn. He is already in excellent physical condition, but feels that a few days of intensive training will put him on edge for his clash with George.

London has always prided himself on his physical fitness. He has won the world championship title in the past, and he has been a professional boxer for 15 years.

London will carry more wrestling knowledge into the ring than George. The important factor, however, is whether he can stand the rough going as well as the champion.

Property Taxes Need to Be Made Lower

GENERAL Secretary Melville D. Loring of the Boston Chamber of Commerce sounds a warning against overtaxing in Massachusetts.

He declares that in the few years and particularly this year we have witnessed a trend towards extravagance in the Legislature.

Secretary Loring says: "New sources of revenue are glibly talked of as the solution of our high property taxes, but, by and large, business men show very little enthusiasm for them."

"If there were any way by which revenue could be tied down to reducing the property tax, there would be much more public support."

Time and again the Legislature on Beacon Hill have imposed added taxes with promise that property taxes would be reduced thereby. In only a few places have property taxes been cut in recent years.

Nearly everywhere property taxes have been raised slowly but steadily.

Where the tax rate has not been advanced in a marked way, it has been a practice of assessors to raise real estate valuations.

This is too commonly supposed to be a painless way of making the property owner pay more taxes, while the town or city officials can still boast that the tax rate has not been increased.

Until the Home Owners Loan Corporation stepped into action last August, high property taxes were instrumental in making many New Englanders lose their homes.

Today, even though the "Home Loan" helps you, the high property taxes have to be met. Those that have occurred in the past are added onto your new mortgage.

Sometimes there must be a "Day of reckoning," when you will either pay or lose the home you thought safeguarded.

It is, then, very much to your interest to join the movement for lower property taxes.

At the same time, you should call for discretion such as has not often been seen on Beacon Hill or in cities or towns in the past. The problem is not a simple one. Its solution calls for careful study.

Secretary Loring warns that we must be extremely cautious in imposing new taxes in Massachusetts. He says:

"The fear of driving business out of the State is no myth. It is very real."

If property taxes were lowered to a reasonable point, it is probable that such progress could be made on the road to prosperity that business concerns wouldn't want to leave the Bay State.

The comparatively great wealth of Massachusetts is what BEINGS businesses here.

People Face Hardest Fight on Governorships

By James T. Williams, Jr.

Of the millions of votes cast this year in congressional, state and local primaries and elections, the greatest number will be cast for the governorships of the various states. The contest for these offices is the hardest fought and the most important in the political life of the nation.

Guard Against Fires

Drought in several sections of New England has helped advance the so-called forest fire season.

Maine has been especially hard hit. Following destruction of 116,000 acres of woodland in the Pine Tree State, further blazes have been reported around East Millinocket, Phillipsburg and Townsend 42 in Washington County.

Maine's forest commissioner, Neil L. Violette, warns that previously burned or cut woodland is particularly susceptible.

You can help save our forests along Cape Cod or out in the Berkshires by refraining from throwing lit cigarettes, cigars or matches from your automobile while enjoying the scenic beauty you don't know how to miss.

You can get down to "brass tacks" now in your debates about the New Deal.

During the fiscal year, ending June 30, Massachusetts paid into the Federal Treasury $97,353,328.02—nearly twice as much as during the previous year.

That 100 per cent tax increase represents the cost of the New Deal to the Commonwealth.
